

Trek Program Embedding industry engagement skills.

Level up your skills and craft to strategically plan for research impact and make tangible progress toward securing the support needed to translate research into solutions that contribute towards positive change

An intensive, hands-on series of coaching sessions, The Trek Program helps researchers wanting to make progress towards their research impact goals by:

- Deepening understanding of industry needs to better position research translation or commercialisation opportunities
- Testing and refining assumptions about research value to ensure it truly meets the needs of end users
- Engage industry partners to support compelling applications for translation/ focused funding schemes such as the Australia's Economic Accelerator program
